COMPANIES ACT 1985

OVERDUE ACCOUNTS

Despite our notice of 23 FEBRUARY 1990 the following remain overdue:

ACCOUNTS: period(s) ending 31/03/89

Accounts of a private company must be filed within 10 months of the accounting period concerned.

These documents are required whether or not the company has traded. If they have been sent during the last 21 days or arrangements are in hand to deliver them within the next month, there is no need to acknowledge this notice. However, if they remain outstanding in one month's time, steps may be taken to prosecute the directors.

Notes on the disclosure requirements of the Companies Act are enclosed.
